(二) 读短文，按要求完成下列各题。

The Transportation of the Past

Travel by Foot

Long, long ago, people had only one way to get around. They walked. A person can walk only about 6 km an hour, so people stayed close to home long ago.

1.

Thousands of years ago, people began riding the horses. That way, they could go much faster than by walking. A horse can run up to 70 km an hour, but not for very long. In Asia, some people used camels to travel in the desert (沙漠).

2.

Ships are another very old way to travel. 1500 years ago, ships with 35 sails (帆) could travel about 37 km an hour with a good wind.

Travel on Land

Steam engines (蒸汽发动机) moved the trains at new high speeds. By the late 1800s some trains powered by steam engines could go about 100km an hour. In 1908, Henry Ford (亨利·福特) made the cars which changed the world. These cars could go up to 70 km an hour.

3.

People have always wanted to travel by air. Hot-air balloons have been used to take people to travel since 1783. Balloons can go about 50 km an hour. The Wright brothers (怀特兄弟) flew their first plane in 1903. That is a great invention.
